Hip Hop For Kids

"Hip Hop For Kids," a new video produced by Jumping Fish Productions that introduces and teaches kids America's most popular dance form, has received a 1995 Parents' Choice Honors Award from the national nonprofit Parents' Choice Foundation. Since 1978 Parents' Choice has been the only nonprofit consumer guide to children's books, toys, video, audio, computer programs, television, magazines and rock 'n' roll. The video received the award "for its high entertainment, educational and production values."

Recommended for children ages 6-12, "Hip Hop For Kids" features dancer and choreographer, Roger G, who has performed with Michael Jackson, Lionel Ritchie and Stevie Wonder, and the Hip Hoppers — Melissa, Adia, Shani, Antoine, Ari and Chi-Chi. The 30-minute workout begins with, warm-up and stretches, which can be done anywhere — in the bedroom or kitchen — and then it's on to the workout and all the moves needed to learn Hip Hop.

"Hip Hop For Kids" retails for $14.95 (S&H $3.95) and can also be ordered by calling 1-800-72-HOWTO (800-724-6986).
